By The Students Of

PARIS HIGH SCHOOL

South Paris, Maine

NINETEEN HUNDRED AND FIFTY-SEVEN

The youth of today are the adults of tomorrow who will be helping to govern this great country and lead it on to greater success than ever before. In spite of the tales of juvenile delinquency which are heard on every side, I feel that we, the youth of today, are much the same as the youth of years gone by. We are trying to be good citizens now and to prepare ourselves for the greater responsibilities of tomorrow.

THE EDITOR

Dedication

Mr. Joseph A. Perham

The class of nineteen hundred fifty-seven wishes to dedicate this issue of the Chronicle to

Mr. Joseph A. Perham

in recognition and appreciation of his cooperation, interest, friendship, and inspiration.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of John Cummings, a former classmate, who could not share these happy years with us at Paris High School.

Joan Sullivan, Secretary to Superintendent

Mr. Howard I. Libby, Superintendent

OPPORTUNITY

The expression "opportunity knocks but once" is a complete fallacy. Many golden opportunities face us nearly every day of our lives—opportunities to make this a better world in which to live. May we face every opportunity of life thoughtfully and ask its meaning bravely and earnestly. In this way we shall be able and ready to meet the supreme opportunities when they come.

Bruce Delwood Bean

To worry little and work less is my idea of happiness.

Judith Ann Benson

Light of step and heart was she.

Anita Rosamont Chase

Character is what you are in the dark.

Charmaine Claire Cummings

A merry heart maketh a cheerful countenance.

Joseph Valentine Cummings

A sadder and wiser man he rose the morrow morn.

Nancy Ann Cummings

What is beautiful is good and what is good will soon be beautiful.

Beverley Ann Cyr

God sent his singers upon earth with songs of sadness and songs of mirth.

Janice May Decato

Though she be but little, she is fierce.

Bruce Harlan Edwards

The world knows nothing of its greatest men.

Carol Jane Foster

We know what we are but know not what we may be.

Harold Wyman Foster

All great men are dying and I'm not feeling so well.

William Benson Greer

A man he seems of cheerful yesterdays and confident tomorrows.

Barbara Ann Hill

Coquetry whets the appetite.

Gene Wendall Iwans

When faith is lost, when honor dies, the man is lost.

Jean Carole Lindsay

Be always sure you're right then go ahead.

Patricia Jean McAlister

I agree with no man's opinions. I have some of my own.

Merlyn Densmare McLaughlin

He said little but to the purpose.

Muriel Amy McLaughlin

I have no mockings or arguments; I witness and wait.

Norman Edward Nutter

Eat, drink, and be merry for tomorrow we shall diet.

Gard Twaddle Plummer

All the world is queer save thee and me, and sometimes I wonder about thee.

Janice Marie Reynolds

And if I laugh at any mortal thing 'tis that I may not weep.

Gordon Alan Rideout, Jr.

The only way to have a friend is to be one.

Marjorie Jean Starbird

And this be our motto—"In God we trust."

Edward Nelson Swett, Jr.

The reward of a thing well done is to have done it.

Roger Ellsworth Thayer
Make haste slowly.

Mahlon Arthur Ward
Beware the wrath of a quiet man.

Marshall Whitman
Leisure with dignity.

Druscilla Ann Wilson
Be good and you will be lonesome.

Eva Elizabeth Yates
I've taken my fun where I've found it.

Literary

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever;
It's loveliness increases, it will never
Pass into nothingness, but still will keep
A bower quiet for us, and a sleep
Full of sweet dreams and health and quiet breathing".

John Keats

A THING OF BEAUTY

One has only to look about him to see a thing of beauty. It manifests itself in so many ways, yet it is sometimes difficult to understand.

I see beauty in the outdoors. I see it in the grass and forestation spreading forth life, in the amazing worlds of insects and animals, in a babbling brook running swiftly, then slowly, through woods and meadows, in all that is a part of the nature of things.

There is beauty in the steel and pounding heart of Industry, creating new life and shaping new forms, all working together, controlled, yet uncontrollable.

Beauty abounds in any field of athletics: in the grace and silent form of the performers; in the anxiety and joy, the strife and grief of competition.

What more is Beauty than the love of a mother for her child, or a child for his pet or newly found friends; or the silent love that grows between two strangers until they met and it suddenly surges forth as a bright flower springs from a seed.

Literature is a thing of Beauty, moulded and blended into grace and perfection. Each word strikes deep into the heart; now full of sorrow, yet now so joyful. How amazing and wonderful that a handful of letters could be given life and feelings to express themselves so freely in shattering emotion.

Yes, all things of Beauty will last forever. And why? Perhaps because Beauty is life itself.

SNOWFLAKE

Oh, little, tiny snowflake,
So happy and so gay,
I like to watch you whirl and dance
Upon your merry way.
Oh, little, tiny snowflake,
Do you hear music sweet
That tinkles through the frosty air
Just for your dancing feet?
Oh, little, tiny snowflake,
So pretty and so wee,
Sometimes I think, when you go by,
You turn and wave to me.

THE HAPPY SONG

Sing a song, sing a song,
Ring the glad bells all along.
Smile at him who frowns at you,
He will smile and then they're two.
Laugh a bit, laugh a bit,
Folks will soon be catching it.
Can't resist a happy face;
World will be a merry place.
Laugh a bit and sing a song,
Where they are there's nothing wrong;
Joy will dance the whole world through,
But it must begin with you.

DESCRIPTION OF ROOM 3

It is a rectangular space of twenty-four feet in width, thirty-five feet in length, and twelve feet in height, bounded on three sides by solid stone walls. In its vast emptiness there sits a man lost in his own thoughts. Brrrrrrring! The door opens and in rush thirty-two dancing, prancing rays of light and hope. Each takes his own place, and with deepest respect listens silently to every word uttered by the man in the blue gabardine suit. Brrrring! His face droops. There is an uneasy stirring. Brrrring! The rays of light dash out. The man is alone once more.

HUNTER'S WARNING

John Twitchell's heart felt as if a cold hand were squeezing it. He sat very still in the bottom of the rowboat. His gaze turned from the shore which was hardly visible in the gray hour before dawn to the dark-red face of Clyde Morgan, whose eyes had not left Twitchell in ten minutes.

Now Morgan dropped the oars and let them slide into the water. He reached into his pocket and pulled out a flask and raised it to his mouth.

"Here's to us and not to me and you, Twitchell," he said noisily as he sucked down a drink and then put the bottle back.

Although they were supposedly friends, he could not help but think that he had come here blindly. In front of Sally Lane, Morgan had asked him to try his luck at duck shooting in order to show him up as a weakling. And John had accepted, to show Morgan that despite the lack of weight and strength, he was not afraid of Morgan. But he had not counted on murder!

In a way it seemed impossible that Morgan, the popular hotel proprietor, would commit murder, killing a teacher in the high school. Did things like that happen to Clyde Morgan and John Twitchell? And the motive—the love of a girl!

Morgan's flaming eyes looked at him with evil hatred. The barrels of the shotguns behind Morgan glinted with much of the same steel hardness.

"You should have read Warning to Hunters that the Game Warden handed out with your license, Twitchell," Morgan said. "I read mine and it gave me a good idea. One of the paragraphs says, remove the shells before laying a gun down in a boat. A shotgun can blow a hole in the bottom of the planking." His lips twisted as he said, "That's what's going to happen to us, Twitchell. Your gun's going to blow a hole in this boat. Then, after the accident, may the best man get to shore since you can't swim."

John Twitchell was rigid now. He felt as it that cold hand around his heart had frozen his body, too. Was he a coward to die like a rabbit without fighting?

John struggled to keep his wits, droping his eyes to the leaflet on the seat. He focused them upon it.

Stiffly he picked up the Game Warden's Warning to Hunters, and looked at a line. He had read it before. He read it again and shuddered.

"I can't" he gasped.

Morgan laughed. Then he reached backward for John's shotgun, and fixed his eyes upon his victim.

Morgan laughed again and said, "Won't we make a swell couple, Sally and me?"

"I would be yellow if I left her to a man like you," John said in a hoarse voice.

Morgan did not answer, but caught the gun and bringing it to his shoulder, pointed it at the bottom of the boat.

John quickly bent down and thrust steady fingers toward the barrel.

At almost the same instant the gun went off.

In the bottom of the boat between the living and the dead lay the Game Warden's Warning to Hunters. It was unable to be read now.

But John Twitchell twisting a tourniquet about a stump of a forefinger, whispered a paragraph that he would never forget. "Always lay your gun down when not in use so that no mud, sand, or snow will get into the barrel. A gun with even a small obstruction in the muzzle of it, will burst when fired!"

TRANSFIGURATION

Upon the mountain top "Eternity" paused Humanity one day,
Weary of his burdens increasing year by year;
Yet unconcerned as a little child boisterous, merry, gay.
His frowning eyes scanned hastily the world below,
And his voice rang out in boastful glee,
"All this I've moulded since centuries ago!"
Suddenly from the misty blue of Heaven he heard
The roar of mighty wings,
And in awe he saw a glowing snowy bird.
It swept by, gently touching him with its wing,
And was swallowed in the storm-tossed sea below
Leaving it still, save for an echoing ring.
Humanity stood transfixed as the mist rose from the sea,
Leaving exposed to his boastful heart
A mirror of reality for him alone to see.
Before him passed the common scenes of misery, pain and woe.
Still unperturbed Humanity had one thought within him burning:
But those things happen not today; nay, only years ago.
Humanity still stands today watching scenes pass by,
But if we take the time to search we'll find
The dawn of Comprehension in his eye.

WHY

What is life, that you and I
Must sit and sit, and wonder why?
Why are we happy then sometimes sad,
Why are we good then sometimes bad.
Why do we like some folks and dislike others,
Why not treat all like sisters and brothers?
It's said sometime we all must meet
Beyond the path trod by mortal feet.
What is the need of bother and fuss,
If there is a life all planned for us.
Or if we have no directed road,
Why must we carry life's heavy load?
Won't someone put straight all this confusion,
Or is the confusion just an illusion?

BEAUTY

There is a quality which my thoughts now dwell upon.
'Tis a paradox to some,
A mystery shrouded by a materialistic world.
Through the ages of history both the great and small
Have discovered its eternal force.
It has been the creation and destruction of man.
This non-stereotype quality can be depicted by the brush
Of an artist, the writings of a poet, the Composition
Of a musician, and often best of all through the Simple words of the common man.
Its size is of little importance, yet its capacity is of Greatest significance. The most valuable asset is its Ability to be shared, or as the most priceless gift,
Given completely away.

THE STILL, DARK NIGHT

The snow drifts down, down through the pale light of the street lamp as I walk slowly down the street. My feet shuffle noiselessly in the cold, white snow. My face is washed in the small flakes. They sting as they fall, but melt with the warmth of my skin. As I move away from the street light my shadow makes a path on the still, untrod snow. Now the moon sheds light, silvery light on the snow. It sparkles like a thousand diamonds beneath the pale, blue light. Tiny stars blink in their dark blue setting and the night is still. Now I see red and green Christmas lights. As I pass the house the beautiful music of a Christmas Carol drifts out into the night.

But again the night is still. The stars and moon shine. The snow drifts softly. . . . . A hot tear falls from my eyes. This is beauty; this is peace.

THE KNEE-HIGH MAN

Have you ever heard of the Knee-High Man? He was unhappy because he was so small. He was always looking at the big animals with envy. They could do so many things that he could never hope to do. It was easy for them to be brave when they were so strong. They could see wonderful far-away places because they were so tall.

Finally, the Knee-High Man could stand it no longer. He got up his courage and walked straight up to the black horse.

"Please, Mr. Horse," he said, "tell me how to be big like you."

"That's easy," neighed the horse, "eat oats and lots of grass, then gallop about the fields, about twenty miles or more. That's the way I grew big and strong."

The Knee-High Man did just as the horse advised, but the oats filled his stomach so full that he felt sick, and the galloping wore him down till he felt smaller than ever. He would just have to find another way to get some size for himself.

While he was looking around for another big creature to advise him, he heard the hoot owl calling from a high tree. The owl was not big, but it was said to be very wise.

"Please, Mr. Owl," called the Knee-High Man, "can you tell me how I can grow to be big and strong?"

"Pray tell, why do you want to be big?" Hooted the owl.

"I never know when someone might start a fight with me," said the little man.

"Has anyone ever tried to start a fight with you?" Asked the owl.

"Well, no," answered the Knee-High Man.

The owl then said that wasn't a very good reason.

The knee-high man decided to try again and said, "I want to be tall so I can see far-away places."

The wise owl also had an answer to this one. "You can climb a tree, can't you? From the branches of a tree, you can see far-away places."

The Knee-High Man stood looking up at the owl. He did not have a thing to say, so the owl spoke again.

"You don't need to be bigger in the body, but you surely do need to be bigger in the brain."

With this last statement, the wise old owl flew away leaving the Knee-High Man to think about what he had said.

PICNIC

Pack up the sandwiches, pickles, and cake,
The salad, the olives, the franks and the steak.
We're off to the woodland, where Nature is calling,
And thrushes are shrilling and beetles are crawling.

Now spread out the food on tables and benches,
While into the revels the kiddies throw wrenches.
Small Gail in the brooklet is already sprawling,
While Judy and Jane are delightedly brawling.
The grub tastes so good in these great open spaces,
We're just a collection of great open faces!
And now come the snapshots, the searching for flowers,
The darkening clouds and the threatening showers.
Let's hurry and pick up her clutter and crusts,
For that's on the list of barbecue's musts.
Now put out the fires and the cigarettes too—
That's one of the things all good picnickers do.
Although we are tired, and the party is over,
We must leave the scene as we found it—in clover. . .
The start of a picnic's all sweetness and light,
But won't we be happy to get home tonight! ! !

STOP! ! !

Speakers, I find,
Are often inclined
To sprinkle their wisdom and wit
With prognostications,
Abundant quotations,
Profuse illustrations,
Exact explanations,
Detailed observations,
Repeated summations,
And lots of good places to quit.

MUSIC, THE LANGUAGE OF THE WORLD

Music is a combination of elements; namely, melody, harmony, and form. These three elements are the foundation upon which the artist "paints a picture." The musical elements must be present in order that the composition be one of music. They are rather a basis, or a plan, to which must be added variation, in order to expand upon the main theme.

There is still another point which the composer must consider; is the composition going to represent that which is within the realm of human dominion, or of the ghastly horror of a nightmarish battle?

The many famous composers of the world must be the poets of their own profession, able to capture the moods, the ideals, and the dreams of people, and transform them into a musical masterpiece, presented to the people in a pleasing or consoling manner.

MOTHER NATURE'S GIFTS

Place yourself on the top of a hill just after a feathery snow has covered the earth. Looking into the valley you see one of the most beautiful sights of winter.

The trees, tall, and with outstretched arms, covered with snow are protecting the creatures which live in and around the forests. Looking off to the right, you catch a glimpse of a beautiful white spire, the steeple of a little country church. Perched above the doorway of this little church is a small white dove. In the churchyard you see, row on row, the tiny white crosses resting place of loved ones.

Looking still further, you view a small, ice-covered stream which flows through the valley.

Off in the distance are rolling hills, crested with snow, their peaks reaching heavenward.

Then you look upward into the beautiful, starlit sky, with it's many constellations, and it makes you realize that there is certainly a supreme Being far greater than ourselves.

MISS CARLENE LARY, 1956-1957 D.A.R. CANDIDATE

Miss Carlene Lary was elected D.A.R. Good Citizen Representative from Paris High School. Representatives are chosen on the basis of dependability, service, leadership, and patriotism. Miss Lary has been active in school as a member of the band, orchestra, and glee club, and was literary editor of the school yearbook, and co-editor of the school paper, the Student Voice. She was a member of the Wig and Powder Society for two years, serving as secretary during her junior year; member of the Future Homemakers of America Chapter; has been in public speaking and took part in class plays during all four years; served in class offices, and is secretary of the Senior Class.

Standing: Dwight Hall, Steve Hicks.

CARDINAL CHAPTER OF NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

The National Honor Society is a national organization set up to recognize scholastic achievement in high school. The purpose of the Cardinal Chapter, here at Paris High School, is to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to promote worthy leadership and to encourage the development of character.

A total, not to exceed 5% of the Junior Class and 15% of the Senior Class, may be elected each year to this society. To be eligible for election a student must stand in the upper quarter of his class. He is then considered by the faculty regarding the qualities of service, leadership and character.

8 Everyone flocked to their cars and took off for Dixfield to the football game. We were defeated 44 - 0, but the Cardinals sure looked good.

14 This is almost too much! Another half day off because of the fair. Hope you didn't forget that big stack of books you brought home from school. Oh well, the fair only comes for one little week out

15 Played Bridgton at home. Another defeat 45 - 0, but we're still trying.

17 Horrors! The seniors had their class pictures taken today. "Why, it was only yesterday that they were Freshmen!"

18 Freshmen Reception. How could the Sophomores be so mean? Representatives from 3 different jewelry companies showed their stock today. The Sophomores selected rings from Herff Jones.

22 The football game of the year! Paris topples Norway 14 to 0. What a game!

28-29 Governor's Youth Highway and Safety Conference in Augusta. Anita represented Paris High.

29 The football boys played Gould at home. Gould took home the bacon and the pigskin. (13 - 0)

OCTOBER

4-5 Teachers Convention at Lewiston. No school. Hooray!

6 Played Jay at Jay. Lost 33-0. Kind of disappointing after beating Norway.

What a cold night! Everyone is wrapped up to their ears. We couldn't freeze. We had to watch the Paris - Mexico football game under lights. (44 - 0) - Mexico beat Rumford too!

16 The Friden Calculator Co. left a calculator for the Commercial students to use for a few days. Oh! To have a brain like that thing . . . . . .

19 What a bunch of girls! Tonight Paris is just swarming with them as Paris plays host to the F. H. A. district meeting.

20 P. H. S's gym is full again. The Oxford County 4H exhibitions were held in the gym. Played Livermore Falls at Livermore and won 6 - 0. Boy are we happy.

27 Played Norway at Norway. Golly, our last football game ended in another tie. (20 - 20) What a wonderful game.

27 The Victory Dance sponsored by the Norway-Paris Student Council was held at Paris. It was a great success. Who were the Victors?

NOVEMBER

1 Boy! What a paper. The first Student Voice of the year came out today.

5 Seniors had Kuder Preference tests to see what jobs each person will be best suited for.

6 Mr. Landry's "Great Senior Science Class" took a day off from school and went to the big city of Portland for a field trip.

7 Dr. Russell Eves entertained by playing an accordian and singing, activity period. Everyone was well entertained.

9 Goody-goody! County teachers convention. No school.

12 No school Veterans Day. Hummmm, Wonder what I'll do?

14 Today the Varsity team was chosen. With Jan as center forward the team looks pretty good.

15 The Seniors have been studying and acting very hard. Tonight is dress rehearsal of the Senior Play at the County Court House. "The People VS. Maxine Lowe."

17 This is really a big night for the Seniors. Its time for the public showing of the Senior Play.

21 There was a good turn out for the Thanksgiving dinner in the cafeteria. The food was delicious.

24 First meeting of the Twin Town Teen Time at the Norway Armory.

28 The Senior play was so good, that by popular demand, a third showing was put on.
The newly organized debating team attended a debate at Bates College, with Mr. Glover.

DECEMBER

1 There was a very good turn-out to the Jack Quinn benefit basketball game. Our teachers took the Officials to the cleaners.

4 First basketball game of the season. Wow!! Paris 75 Norway 46. The J. V.s also won 37 to 31.

5 The girls had their first basketball game of the season today. They really know their stuff. Paris 29 to Andover's 18. The J. V.'s lost 73 to 37.

7 The Cardinals win again. Gould Academy 40 Paris 70. The J. V.s lost 49 to 46. They played overtime.

11 The boys are really on the ball this year. Another victory! Paris 56 to Mexico's 53. The J. V.s lost and the girls won.

14 Each class had a Christmas Party in their home rooms. The girls that played basketball at Oxford that afternoon missed all the fun.
The Varsity beat Oxford that night by one point. 48 to 47.
The J. V.s also won 53 to 46.

18 The Cardinals lost their first game of the season to Mechanic Falls. 64 to 43. The J. V.s won 54 to 42.

17-31. Christmas vacation!

JANUARY

4 Paris Cardinals lost basketball game to Bridgton at Bridgton 73 to 38. The J. V.'s also lost 36 to 33.

8 Basketball game at Jay. Paris suffered another defeat. 64 to 33. The J. V.'s lost 36 to 34.

11 Congratulations! Jean Lindsay won the Future Homemakers award. McFalls emerged victorious over Paris at Norway Armory. 60 to 43. J. V.'s lost 49 to 28.

12 Tough luck boys. Another basketball game was lost to Oxford at Paris. 42 to 26. The J. V.'s won 32 to 30.

15 The Cardinals lost to Mexico 62 to 32. The J. V.'s lost 64 to 37.

18 Paris played and lost to St. Dom's tonight 79 to 57. J. V.'s lost 54 to 31.

25 Basketball game at Bridgton today. Paris lost 68 to 38. J. V.'s lost 38 to 34.

FEBRUARY

1 The girls played and lost to Oxford in the gym after school. Livermore defeated Paris 61 to 43.

5 Paris lost traditional rivalry game to Norway. 56 to 53. The J. V.'s lost 51 to 38.

8 Cardinals win last game of schedule by beating Gould. Hurrah! 62 to 47.

14 Paris is rejected from tournament by a loss to Jay at Rumford Armory. So closes this basketball season of Paris High School. 74 - 35.

MARCH

13 Some Senior boys went to Lewiston to find out the results of a vocational test they had taken. Other Seniors will go later on.

19 There was a big turn out to the Paris Gym to hear all the many wonderful Prize Speaking Pieces.

27 Paris sent some speakers to Mexico to the Oxford County Public Speaking Contest. They were Agnes Swan (Oratory), Alice Viles (Humorous), and Stephen Hicks (Dramatic).

APRIL

1 April Fools Day, and what a time everyone is having!

5 A big night for the Juniors. Tonight they put on their play for the public.

8 Arrived in New York at 7:00 A.M. and registered at the Shelton Hotel. After breakfast they started their tour consisting of the Statue of Liberty, Radio City Music Hall, Observation Roof Tour of the R. C. A. Building. In the evening they attended a stage show, "The Most Happy Fella".

- We Three Kings
- What Child is This?
- It Came Upon the Midnight Clear
- Angels We Have Heard On High
- Silent Night

The Combined group was conducted by Professor Jennings of Hebron Academy and was accompanied by Miss Bess Klain of Norway at the piano. Mrs. Helen Shaw of South Paris led the girls chorus in the singing of their numbers. Miss Georgine Perkins of Paris High sang a beautiful solo part in "I Wonder As I Wander".

It was a great honor to have Professor Jennings and the Academy Choir present at this program with us, and we hope that in the future it becomes an annual affair of the three communities.

The title of the dramatic organization at Paris High School is the Wig and Powder Society. The society functions under a constitution and its objectives and purposes are: To further the interest of dramatics in High School; to develop and cultivate dramatic ability; to better the appreciation of drama; to help purchase equipment for the school. Membership to the society is dependent on ability judged by a membership committee and is comprised of a maximum of ten seniors, ten juniors, six sophomores, and four freshmen.

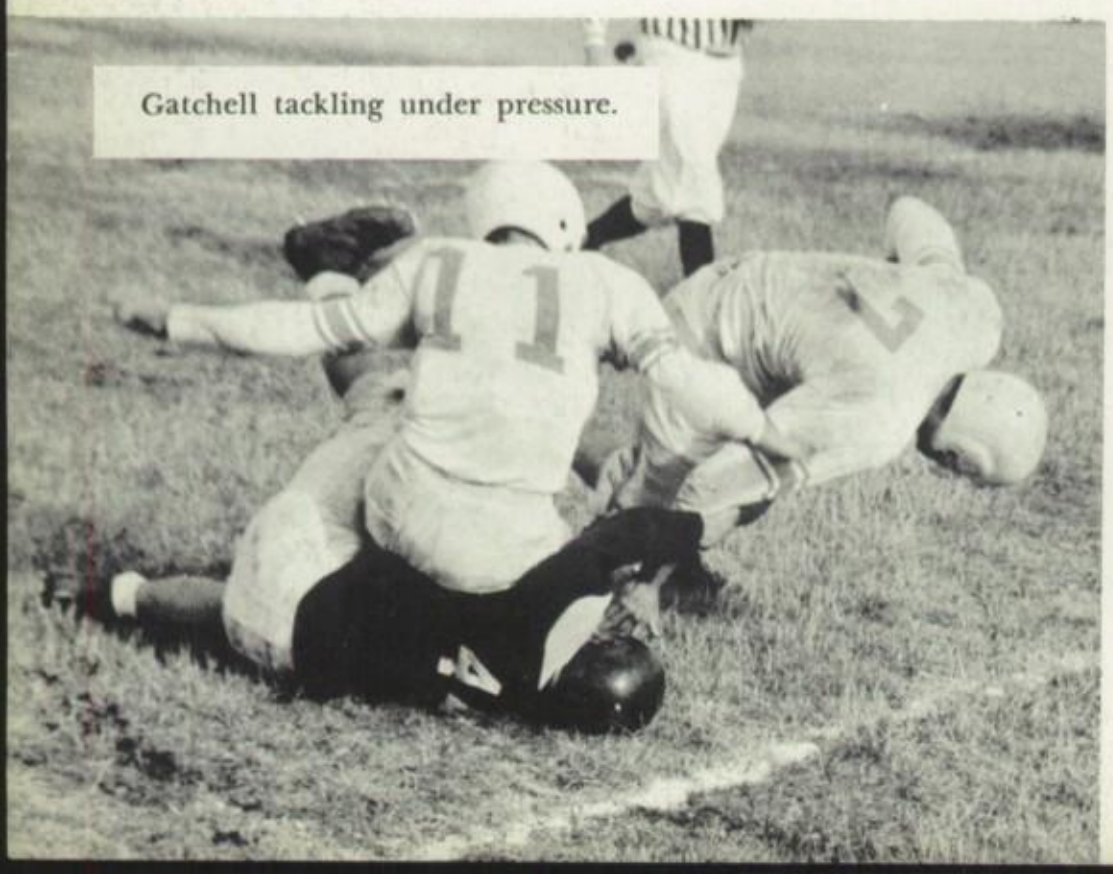
Free ball snagged by Gatchell—No. 44

A strong offensive play going into action starring Gatchell and King.



Gatchell tackling under pressure.

Football 1956. Football is a hard game for hardy characters—for boys who are tough in body and in spirit. Football teaches the boys who play it, what perhaps is the most important lesson a person can learn in life. That lesson is: When you have been knocked down, get up and come back fighting. There is no easy way to play football. If a boy is going to reap the benefits of the game in full, then he must play the game with all his heart. Football is a team game in the strictest sense of the word. Everyone must do his job if the team is to be successful. This lesson also carries over very much into later life. The 1956 football season at Paris High School was not too successful as far as the won and lost record is concerned. It was, however, successful; the lessons were learned. Remember the lessons that you have learned on the football field and apply them to your life through the years and your chances for success in all of your endeavors will be much greater.
